CHESTER GETS ON THE NATIONAL HIGHWAY ROUTE

But the charm of the place comes from the swimming pool. Grassy lawns surround this institution, for that is what it is. The pool is of spacious dimensions and is constructed of plate, floor, walls, lettering, designs and ornamentation worked in with white tiles. Around it are marble balustrades and fountains, and the whole is a masterpiece of the schema of the most beautiful of the type of what is popularly known as the Italian garden.

It is at Great Falls that one of the most graphic illustrations of the power of the hydro-electric plant as an agency in development—as an agent in transforming the lonely woods into centers of culture, wealth and happiness her husband, Rev. A. M. Ben, assisted by Rev. W. G. Smith and Rev. Rabb. The deceased was for many years a loyal and consistent member of Hickory Grove, A. R. P. church and she leaves many friends and acquaintances to the state supreme court, as special judge of the seventh circuit, to preside over a term of court starting in Union on December 7. He sits in the place of the late Judge Memminger, who died in Charleston yesterday.

He is survived by his wife and two sons.

Federal Aid Road Fund will supply the balance.

It cost the states of the Union as much for education in 1928 as in 1918.

Surprised At New Circulation.

Mr. J. Martin Grant, local weather prognosticator, who was in Chester Wednesday along with hundreds of other people attending the drawing incident to the giving away of two automobiles by the Chester merchants, reported to the News office to tell us that The News is being read by people not only in Chester county but throughout the entire section.

Mr. Grant met up with people Wednesday evening in Fairfield and York counties, who counted him on his recent prediction of heavy frost and when he asked them where they noticed it they all informed him that they saw it in The Chester News. Mr. Grant says he had no idea The News covered such a wide territory and was so thoroughly read. Mr. Grant's recent prediction was copied from The News by various papers throughout the country and due to the fact that Mr. Grant's predictions are hitting the spot he is gaining an enviable reputation as a weather prophet.

CLERK'S SALE.

By virtue of a decretal order to me directed, I will sell in the Court House in Chester, S. C., on Monday, December 7th, 1925, all the following described real estate to-wit:

All that certain tract or plantation of land containing 108 acres, more or less, together with each and every improvement thereon, situate, lying and being in the County of Chester, State of South Carolina, on the public road from the town of Blackstock to the town of Darby, and about two miles northeast of the town of Blackstock, and bounded by said public road on the north, by the lands of H. G. Castles, on the east, and south by lands of Miss M. M. Castles on the west, and being the identical tract of land conveyed to J. E. Nichols by John E. C. Jones by deed dated May 27th, 1919, and recorded in the office of the Clerk of Court in and for said county and state in Book 180 at page 63.

Terms of Sale.

One-third of the purchase price in cash, and the balance to be paid in two equal installments in one and two years respectively from date of sale, with interest on the deferred payments at the rate of eight per cent per annum, payable monthly from date of sale, until paid in full, and the payment of the credit portion shall be secured by bond of the purchaser, and a mortgage of the premises sold, but the purchaser may pay all or any less amount in cash, and shall pay for all necessary taxes, recording and stamps. That in the event any purchaser at said sale shall fail to comply with his bid WITHIN ONE HOUR after sale, then the Clerk shall resell on the same day or any subsequent sales, at the plaintiff's option, said premises, and in the event the purchase price at the second sale shall fall short of the price at the first sale, the Clerk shall report such deficiency to this Court, and the proper parties shall have the right to recover such deficiency from such defaulting purchaser.

Enjoyable Meeting.

The Tuesday Evening Book Club had a very enjoyable meeting on last Tuesday evening with Mrs. Mary Strong at her home on Columbia Street. After business had been disposed with, Miss Katherine Duggan gave some interesting facts in relation to New England Decline in Literature and Miss Orey Corbitt read one of Miss Jewett's stories, "The White Heron."

The club was pleased to have as their guests, Mrs. Hugh Hamilton, a former member of the club, and Miss Menden.

The hostess, assisted by Miss Margaret Polk, to Bertha Pinsky and Vange Wylie, served a delicious salad course and coffee.

BAPTIST BANQUET

Men's Bible Class of First Baptist Church held banquet last evening—Mr. W. A. Corbitt is Treasurer—Okey Sunday School Superintendents Guests of Class—Judge Simpkins also Guest—Dr. Harry Clark of Farmington, Principal Speaker at the Evening.

By Staff Correspondent.

The Men's Bible Class of the First Baptist Church held their annual banquet last evening in the Sunday School Building and it was a most delightful affair. The banquet hall was a scene of beauty on this festive occasion, lighted candles and bowls of handsome autumn flowers being used effectively on all the tables.

Covers were laid for 150.

Dr. W. G. Moore, pastor of the church, asked the blessing and then a delicious supper prepared by the ladies of the church followed in the culinary art, was served in courses by young ladies of the church. It was the consensus of opinion that never was food prepared so well or served with such grace and distinction.

Mr. W. A. Corbitt, who won for himself a reputation as toastmaster last year's banquet was at his post again this year and presided with ease and grace. His delightfully informal manner, witty remarks and well applied jokes kept up the spirit of fun during the entire evening.

As special guests of the class were the superintendents of the other Sunday Schools of the city. These men were recognized and introduced by the toastmaster and were given hearty applause.

Thinking that perhaps some of the speakers, appearing publicly for the first time, might be a little nervous, Mr. Corbitt announced that the first number on the program would be a song. This would no doubt have a soothing effect and help quiet the nerves. A quartette composed of Messrs. G. W. Evans, W. P. Stroud, S. S. McCullough and R. N. Speigler sang several numbers which were greatly enjoyed.

Judge Simpkins who is holding court in Chester at this time, was also a guest at the banquet. He was introduced to the class and responded with a few well chosen timely remarks.

Mr. W. A. Cox, President of the class, was next presented by the toastmaster. Since becoming president of the class Mr. Cox has been a tireless worker and it is due largely to his zeal and enthusiasm that the class has grown to its present proportions. It might be appropriate to state right here that this class of the Chester Church is one of the Big Ten in the state. Mr. Cox, after replying to Mr. Corbitt's salutes, proceeded to express his appreciation of the honor bestowed on him in being chosen president of the class, and also his appreciation of the loyal support given him by the members of the class. He stated that the Membership Campaign is over, he urged the members not to grow slack in their duties, but to continue to work and to keep the class up to its high standard.

The next two speakers were Messrs. R. Bagerton and W. P. Stroud. These two men were captains of the teams, the Whites and the Blues in the recent contest, and did a wonderful work in building up the class. Each speaker in his characteristic way, made a few remarks which had lots of humor as well as a plea for the members to remain faithful.

Mr. G. C. Cushman, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, then made a short talk. He prefaced his remarks with a few amusing incidents, and then spoke on Community Building. He stated that banquets such as this were a great aid in building up the community spirit, which no community could prosper without.

At this time, Chester's famous string band, composed of Messrs. C. C. Young, Ernest Simpson and Robert Klanks, entertained the guests with several popular numbers.

Mr. Corbitt then said that as Prof. Brockman was one of the outstanding educators of the state, he thought it appropriate that Mr. Brockman present the guest of honor, Dr. Harry Clark, Professor of Education at Furman University. This Mr. Brockman did in a most pleasing way, and Dr. Clark responded in a happy manner. Mr. Clark stressed the work of the laymen in the churches. He said it was the preacher's work to proclaim the truth, but it was the laymen's work to testify.

He made the point that every man affiliate himself with a church and then take an active part in the workings of that church. He also pleaded for a spirit of cooperation among the members. Throughout his speech he brought in many timely references and quoted poems that brought out more forcibly the points in question. Altogether the speech was a gem and will long be remembered by all those who heard it.

As this completed the program the toastmaster bade the guests good night.

BURGARS SMOTHER INFANT

Chester, Nov. 17.—While the mother and a nurse sat in another room listening to the radio, burglar last night smothered to death the month old son of Mrs. John Raymond Allen in a suite of a fashionable northside hotel.

The room in which the baby had been left asleep was ransacked. Clothing and a pillow had been pressed over its face.

NOTICE OF SALE OF VALUABLE REAL ESTATE

Due notice is hereby given that pursuant to a resolution of the congregation of Parity Presbyterian Church, Chester, S. BILIOUS ATTACKS

From Which Kentucky Man Suffered Two or Three Times a Month, Relieved by Black-Draught.

Lawrence, Ky.—Mr. J. P. Nelson, a local coal dealer and farmer, about two years ago learned of the value of Thedford's Black-Draught medicine, and now he says:

"Until then I suffered with severe bilious attacks that came on two or three times each month. I would get nauseated, I would have dizziness and could not work. I would take pills until I was worn-out with them. I didn't seem to get relief. After taking the little my bowels would act a couple of times, then I would be very comfortable."

"A neighbor told me of Black-Draught and I began its use. I never had any more such attacks as it gave me. I would not be so tired. It seemed to cleanse my whole system and make me feel like new. I would take a few doses—get rid of the bile and have my usual clear head. Full of 'you' and could do twice the work."

One can't do it. NC451

Where Lower Prices Rule

Thanks to our army of customers, we have been able to keep our volume of business to a point where we are able to buy in larger quantities and therefore at lower prices.

Everyone who trades here knows that our prices are extremely fair and many times the value of an article has increased when our price has not.

It has been our policy to give the customer the best of every deal. This policy has brought us many customers and we hope that in the future it will bring us more.

ROCK HILL VS CHESTER.

Rock Hill High Football Team and Chester High Will Battle at Chester Fair Grounds Next Wednesday Afternoon—Probably Last Game of the Season.

Although not a scheduled game it has been decided between the Chester High school football team and the Rock Hill team to play a game at the Chester Fair Grounds next Wednesday afternoon. A game of football between these two teams is always of interest due to the rivalry between the two towns and a large crowd is expected at Wednesday's game.

The Rock Hill Herald in part says:

Judging from the scores made by the teams in previous games this battle will probably be closely contested. While Chester has a heavier team that Rock Hill, it is expected that, what the Bearcats lack in weight will be made up in greater speed and quickness. A large number of the members of the Rock Hill team will go down with the team to cheer them and it is expected that two teams will see an excellent chance for victory.

Time, tide and had debt collectors wait for no man.

Hard work is almost a specific cure for hard luck.

He who goes back on his friends never has any when he needs them.

Lives of great men often remind us that only one is not born every day.

Queer, but true that phlegmatic people are ever able to see the point.

The man who worries over little things never has any time for big ones.

There are just three kinds of people: somebodies, anybodies and nobodies.

Co-operation works better when in use than when it is just talked about.

The people who deliver the goods are likewise the ones who do the collecting.

If you want to keep a good opinion of a man, don't examine him too closely.

Lies told to your friends may be good advice, but first be sure they are your friends.

We always enjoy an interview with some man because we never have to say a word.

All the money that is good for anyone is just enough to get a long without expending.

Don't worry about the scandals you have mixed because you will not have to repeat them.

People who don't die of their intelligence go to waste are good examples to follow.

Success is measured largely by population and the mode of life of very often questionable.

Virtue is something that can be sent to the shop for repairs and come back as good as new.

It's human nature for folks born with silver spoons in their mouths to wish they were gold.

Placing first things first is a good policy to follow, but all don't agree on what comes first in life.

Working for a fixed salary is a pretty ideal if you got to do the fixing.

OLD-FASHIONED PARENTS
President Coolidge told the international convention of the Y. M. C. A. at Washington that parents are not doing their duty. He said that a return to the old-fashioned method of rearing children would bring improvement.

Any fair observer will admit the truth of this statement, yet the great majority of us are all constantly seeking something new and we often accept it just because of its merit, but simply because it is new.

This constant seeking for something new is in part responsible for the development of the modern part time parent—the parent who is too busy with outside interests to have time left for the family circle and the rearing of children.

The complexity of life has brought about a great change in home life. The old companionship of parents and children is not possible in the measure that it once was, particularly for those who try to keep up the demands of social life.

No father can attend to his business, his civic clubs, his lodges and his social engagements and at the same time be a real parent to his children. No mother can be the chum of her daughter and meet all of her obligations socially.

It is not strange that the chief executive of the leading nation of the world should give utterance of such thoughts. Youthful criminals are growing in number and great concern is felt for the moral value of young people in all walks of life.

The president's indictment of parenthood may seem blunt, but it is clearly just. The obligation of parenthood is too important not to receive first consideration. However, other things are placed first, the result will be anything but satisfactory.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

The Armed-Officer Menace.

The fate of Jesse Wyatt appears to hinge on the question whether or not the bullet that killed him first struck the pavement and was deflected through the rear of the racing car. As to this the testimony is conflicting. Wyatt, by his chief, who said with him, declared he did not shoot at the car at all, but into the ground, for the purpose of attracting the attention of another officer. An army expert from Fort Bragg declared positively that a deflected bullet would have made a ragged and not a round hole. The bullet that struck Holt made a clean round hole according to the evidence.

Eye-witnesses in the car behind asserted that the weapon in the hands of Wyatt was held at a level and was pointed directly at the car in which Holt was riding. Another qualified expert comes along with the assertion that at the distance specified the human eye would be unable to detect whether the weapon was pointed upward downward or straight ahead.

Some men were sent out on the road to fire some guns as a test, but the only thing brought out was the reason claiming of the commission of the impact with the pavement, leaving the question of whether the witness saw what they said they saw in the matter of the leveled arm of Officer Wyatt to be decided by the jury.

It is in the matter of the testimony in the case that Stephen Holt is agreed on that. And that the tragedy grew out of the failure of the car in which he was riding to stop at the command of two perfect strangers, dressed in civilian clothes, who were on the public highway. That these men were officers will mean very much to a dealer in automobiles.

It was these officers who knew they were officers until after he was dead. The only known way to distinguish an officer is by his insignia. Without that, he is exactly like any ordinary man. The big difference lies in the advantage to the officers that they have reason concealed on the hand of the other fellows has not.

It is contended that those officers were carrying liquor. It was to pass that neighborhood. They proposed to search the car in the case of the defunct lawyer was riding. But everybody, ride in automobiles—innocent people, as well as bootleggers are on the public highway. In these days of men are assassinated for the price of a two-cent stamp; when men are killed that the highwayman may leave a car in which to store his loot. It is the instinct of most men to stop on the case of a stranger trying to avoid inquiry whether the man confronting him is an officer.

Therein lies the tragedy of the case. The difficulty confronting officers of law in running down bootleggers is well known. But the ordinary citizen has a right to the public road without danger of molestation. An honest citizen always stops when he is commanded by a uniformed officer. But when the officer is in citizen's clothes he can no more distinguish the policeman from the highwayman than the officers can distinguish him from the bootlegger.—Charlotte Observer.

THE EIGHT-YEAR PLAN
An intelligent discussion of public business is always helpful and wholesome—especially so when it is by the highway. Down to the highway, the highway is a collection of men, Judge Gruber and Representative. Judge Gruber is discussing the proposed "Eight-Year Plan" of the State Highway department under which there is a distribution of funds according to counties. There has been no decision in that matter, the whole subject going over to a special meeting of the commission to be held next month, when the public will be invited to present views and criticism of the plan.

Judge Gruber, a great friend of highways, takes the position that there should be no distribution of funds until according to county lines. While he will find, we believe, that he is taking his point of view too narrowly as presented, his discussion will lead to the development of two interesting new points.

One is that the State Highway department continue to scatter its funds here and there as the counties may desire—a policy that is now followed too much perhaps for the greatest progress on the road of this country.

In conflict with that is the view interlarded by many that the State Highway department should concentrate its funds for a period of years on four or five main highways until they are paved all across the state. Utilities depart from these roads to pay up roads of secondary importance the funds may be interested in.

There is ample room for debate.—Spartanburg Herald.

BREAKS NECK IN FALL
WILHELM HUNTING, POSSUM
Winston-Salem, Nov. 18.—News is received here that William McKinley Reid, aged 29, was fatally injured late Friday night while out possum hunting, with some friends near his home at Germantown, Stokes county. It appears that he had climbed a tree to secure one of the sullen little animals perched there, and had started, to descend where the limb broke, throwing Reid to the ground. His neck was broken and death followed an hour later.

CAPT. CISO, OF WINSTON SALEM, PRAISES KARMAN

"It's Fine—It Beats Anything I Ever Saw—And Man Don't Have To Be Sick To Be Benefited By It," Says Prominent Man.

"I feel that one cannot invest a few dollars to better advantage than in taking a few bottles of Karmak," declares Capt. John J. Sigs, Superintendent of the Southern Railway System, and prominent citizen of Winston-Salem, N. C., residing at 205 N. Main St.

"I have found that when a man suffers any case of indigestion, generally, feels the need of something to keep up his vim, vigor and vitality, and to ward off a general run-down condition into which he is so liable."

"It has been my custom for several years to take a bottle or two of some good tonic for this purpose, and I do not hesitate to say that I have never felt so good as I have ever taken as I have from this new medicine, Karmak."

In a very short time it just seemed to give me a new appetite, made my food taste good to me and built me up in strength and energy all over. It's fine—nothing I ever saw—and I don't hesitate to recommend it to any one."

Karmak is sold in Chester exclusively by the Standard Pharmacy and by the leading drug stores in every town.

Prunition Laboratories Boston, Mass.

Eat Prunition If You Wish To Grow Fat and Plump

This Man and Woman Do You Want To Get Fat And Be Strong?

The trouble with most thin folks, who wish to gain weight, is that they insist on dragging their stomachs or stuffing their throats with food: rubbing on useless "flesh creams," or following some foolish physical culture stunt, while the real cause of thinness goes unnoticed. You cannot get fat until your digestive tract properly assimilates the food you eat. Drink a glass of cold water four or five times a day and take the following preparation, known as Prunition, and much remarkable results will be obtained. Prunition is given as a tonic and is used in flesh building. Prunition taken at meals to prepare fat, flesh and muscle building elements so that the blood can readily accept and carry them to the starved portion of the body. You can readily picture the transformation that additional and previously lacking flesh-making material should bring to your cheeks.

Two-thirds of the purchase price to be paid in cash and the remaining two-thirds to be paid in two equal annual installments, due one year and two years respectively from date of sale, and that the deferred payments be evidenced by notes of the purchaser or purchasers secured by the mortgage of the premises sold. Purchaser to pay for all necessary papers, recording and stamps. Deferred payments shall bear interest at the rate of seven per cent per annum payable annually at the same rate until paid in full.

Purchaser must comply with his bid within one week. Upon failure to so comply, the land shall be sold at the risk of the former purchaser, and should there be a deficiency, the plaintiff shall have the right to recover from such defaulting purchaser the difference.

Sold in the suit of William P. Smith, vs. Oscar D. Smith, et al. for partition and accounting.
